J220
Coding for Journalists

LECTURERS
Yoli Martinez and Soo Oh

PROMPTS

Sit back!

start Zoom recording + captions

Agenda

Announcements: Homework + Presentations

Homework review + How much time people spent

Guest panel

Announcements

Homework for this week:

- Assignment 04-24: Wireframe or Final Project progress

- May 1 Presentations and Peer Feedback: Presentation rubric is up on bCourses now.
We'll do course evaluations at the start of the next class, then do presentations.

Assignment Rubric Details

May 1 Presentation

Criteria	Ratings		Pts
About Tell us about your project. Why did you choose that topic or format? Think of this as your "elevator pitch."	5 pts Full Marks	0 pts No Marks	5 pts
Design inspiration Show us (don't just tell us) your design inspiration. This could be one or multiple websites, books, movies, etc.	5 pts Full Marks	0 pts No Marks	5 pts
Wireframes Share your wireframes.	2.5 pts Full Marks	0 pts No Marks	2.5 pts
Website (in progress) Show us the progress on your website build.	2.5 pts Full Marks	0 pts No Marks	2.5 pts
Challenges What your biggest challenge in creating this project? What other challenges did you have?	5 pts Full Marks	0 pts No Marks	5 pts
Celebrations What's been the most fun or interesting part of making this project?	5 pts Full Marks	0 pts No Marks	5 pts
Questions for feedback Be ready with questions about what you'd like to get some feedback for from the group.	5 pts Full Marks	0 pts No Marks	5 pts

Total Points: 30

Announcements

Final Project rubric is up, too.

How much time spent on J220 last week

Week 04-17: Number of students grouped by hours spent outside of lecture and office hours
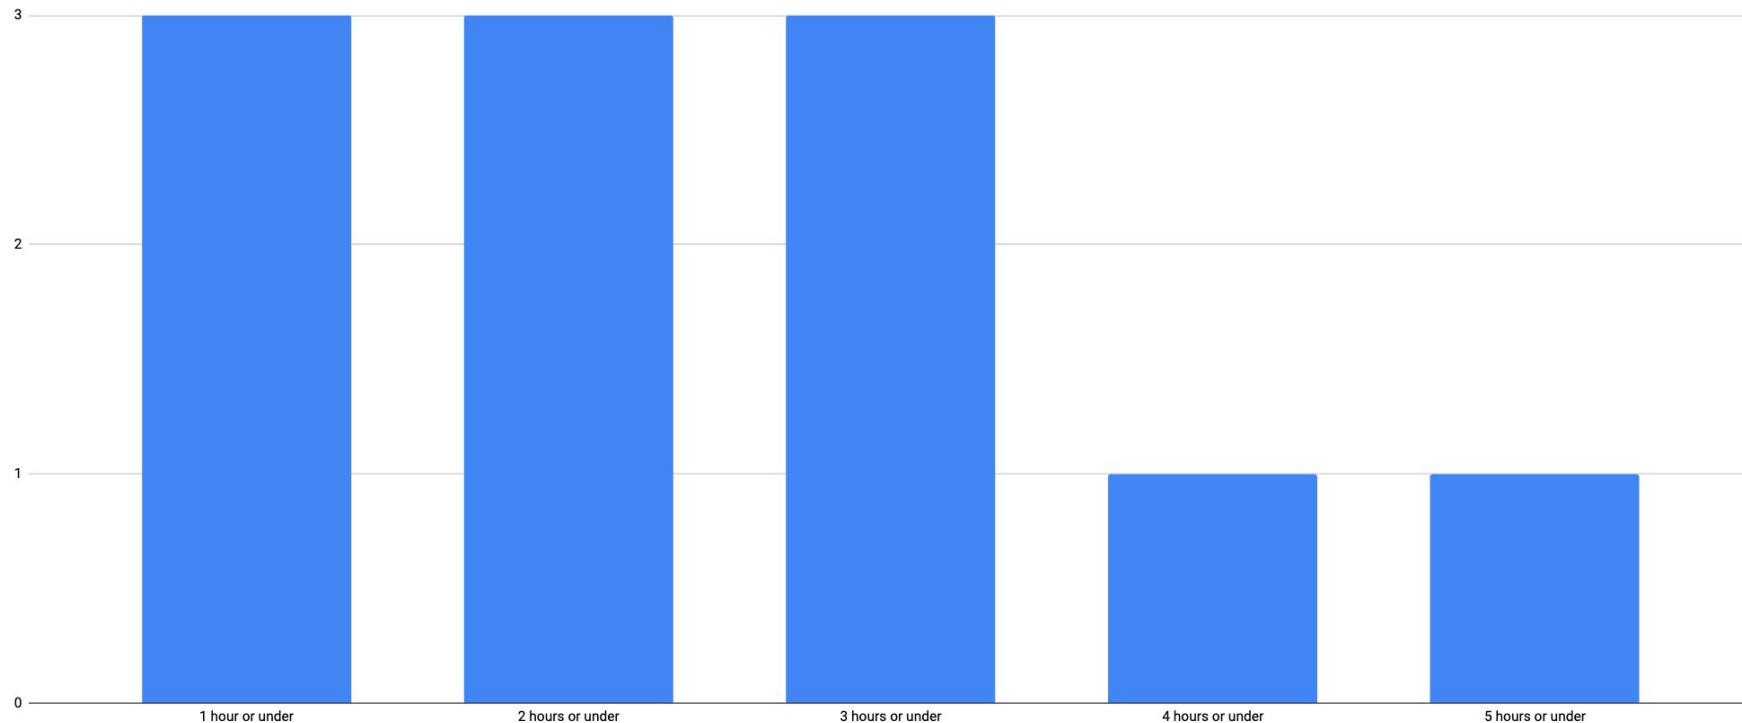

Wireframe notes

- Some real (fake) text content can be helpful.

What questions do you have?

Guest panel

Nancy DeVille
Editorial Project Manager
The Atlantic

Gabe Hongsdusit
Visual Designer
The Markup

Evan Wagstaff
Director of Newsroom Engineering
Hearst Newspapers